Quit Smoking and Clear Nicotine Addiction with Cold-Laser Treatment

Biocare Laser Therapy Wellness Center launches Phoenix office, providing smoking-cessation treatments that help smokers quit with One treatment

August 11, 2010 (Phoenix, Ariz.) — In the United States, an estimated 20% of adults are smokers (source: American Heart Association). In 2007, one in five Arizonans reported being smokers (source: Arizona Department of Health Services). A new treatment is prepared to drastically improve these statistics and help more Americans live healthy and smoke-free through the technology of bio laser treatments.

The process of using laser therapy to stop smoking and alcohol and drug addictions as well as enhance appetite suppression was pioneered by Anne Penman, who was able to quash her 60-cigarettes-a-day addiction through laser treatments. She then made it her personal mission to help other addicts quit. There are now programs across the United States, Mexico, Turkey, Scotland, and England; Biocare Laser Therapy Wellness Center is the only Anne Penman organization located in Phoenix, Arizona with services in Denver, Colorado and Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Most times, addiction is at the root of smoking, overeating, or drug and alcohol abuse. That's where bio laser therapy can help. When smokers stop smoking, a sudden drop in endorphin levels leads to withdrawal symptoms of stress and tension. Smoking a cigarette raises the endorphin levels. After a few hours, endorphin levels drop and irritation is felt with a strong desire to smoke again. The bio laser procedure stimulates key neurochemical pathways in the body, making the brain release feel-good chemicals called endorphins, natural chemicals in the body associated with the spontaneous relief of pain and stress. These brain chemicals eliminate the physical cravings of the addiction.

"I AM NOW A NON-SMOKER! I have smoked for 42 years. I've tried everything, patch, gum, lozenges, hypnosis, psychologist and Chantix. I've quit for short periods but never able to totally kick it. Thanks Anne Penman for your Laser Therapy, it really works!"

In addition to using bio laser therapy to stop overeating, clients at the Biocare Laser Therapy Wellness Center can also see a notable reduction in the look and feel of problem areas such as stomach, hips, thighs, and buttocks through the use of the Vacu Stepper. This new European technology process burns fat faster in the lower body areas by exercising while introducing vacuuming motion. The vacuum exercise process improves blood circulation in the area while burning fat. Clients receive the benefits of losing weight, inches, and cellulite appearance. Previous clients have seen dramatic results, whether using the Vacu Stepper exclusively or pairing it with bio laser therapy or fat detox wrap.

Biocare Laser Therapy is located at 2200 W. Bethany Home Rd. #7A, Phoenix, AZ 85015 and on the Web at <http://www.biocaretherapy.com>.
